Berea For All

Berea is not like any other school in the world.

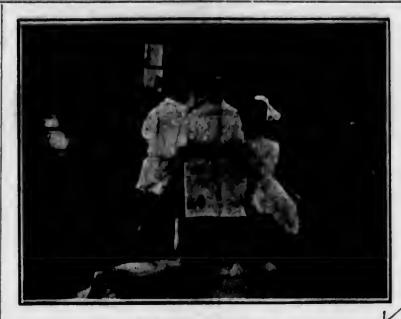

It has been built up on purpose to be of the greatest benefit to the sons and daughters of the mountains.

It has different departments and different classes so that every one can find just the instruction which will do him the most good.

These buildings, these teachers, all of Berea College belongs to your children if they will come and use it.

More than 1700 students came from all parts of the Union and from outside this country to Berea last year.

The Fall Term Begins on Wednesday, September 16, 1914.

READING THE CITIZEN The Citizen visits thousands of country homes and is read eagerly by th children and the grown-ups alike.

Do Two Things Today

Berea asks you to do two things today.

The first thing is to subscribe for The Citizen. That will give you the news from Berea and the teaching from Berea every week for a year. There is no other paper which looks out for the interests of the mountain people like The Citizen. It has something good for each member of the family. Nearly every week there is something in the paper worth one dollar to the farmer or five dollars to the housekeeper.

Subscribe today. Call at the office, or see the agent on the grounds. The Citizen is your paper.

The second thing is to make a gift for Kentucky Hall. Berea has many buildings but it has not enough, and is obliged to turn many students away. We have been trying for two years to get together $25,000 to build a new girls' dorm. itory. About $15,000 is raised and we want $10,000 more today. Everybody who comes to Commencement can make some gift.

French and German Lawmakers Confer

A very significant conference is taking place at Basie, Switzerland, m which about one-third of the members of the French and German ases of Logislature are discussing the possibilities of securing better many. The persuasion seems to have seized many of the leaders of both countries that war is not incyttable between France and Germany; that in spite of the humiliafrom France received in the Franco-Prossian war in 1870, it is still possible that the two nations may be MINUTES neighbors rather than foes. It is generally conceded that the welfare of each country would be advanced by the growth of friendliness.

Military Supplies Landed in Mexico

declared before the federal commission on industrial relations which is making an exhaustive inquiry into Colorado mine conditions, that the Colorado State Supreme Court judges are ruled by the corporations as if they were mere office hoys.

tle said, "The situation in Colorado is now bigger than a strike; the onthreak there is merely a local symptom of wider disorder. Colorado has perfected the science of corrupting judges. They are owned like office boys. Its lawyers and its business men, all are owned."

He further said that 500 children n Colorado coal mines had been made orphans by explosion that resulted from carelessness and failure ta install ordinary safety appliances. He recited a number of incidents that led inevitably to the final protest of the mine workers.

LESSON FOR JUNE 7

COMING OF THE KINGDOM.

LESSON TEXT-Luke 17:30-37, GOLDEN TEXT-"Lo, the Kingdom of God to within you." Luke 17:21.

i. The Kingdom Present, vv. 20, 21. The Pharisees held some peculiar ideas about the coming of the kingdom. Contrary to their ideas there are no special outward signs to heraid its coming. The word "observation" v. 20, is an astronomical one and suggests that the kingdom was to come in a bodily shape from the sky, a current expectation on the part of the Phariseea.

In answer to the boastful Pharises (v. 20) Jesus plainty told them that he himself is the kingdom, and that that kingdom was in their midst or "among yon," see (v. 21) margin. Their question was a flippant one, one of unbelief, and to it Jesus makes & characteristicativ hrief, but clear reply, that partook of the nature of a rebuke. The kingdom would not come with trumpets and drum. They could not say, "Lo here! to there!" its coming was not to be spectacular. arresting the attention of some who in turn brought it to the attention of others. The authorized rendering "within you" does not imply that the kingdom aiready existed in the individual fives of his questioners. Subsequent teaching of Jesus shows that he here refers to another and a final coming of the kingdom, at the time of the finni coming of the son of man. What he desired to teach these Phartsees was that the kingdom of which they spoke had already appeared due to the fact of his presence in their midst. The carping Pharisees withdraw and Jesus speaks openly to his disciples of the days that will come, a time of persecution when they will long for comfort.

Prophecy Fuifilled.

The Visible Son of Man, vv. 22-24. The kingdom in its outward form was rejected by the Jews, John 1:26, 27. In its spirituni form it is now in the hearts of helievers (Rom. 14:17), hut he who was rejected with contempt will one day be sought after. though in vain, Matt. 23:37-39. During the time of his absence many shall claim to he Christ (v. 23), hut we are not to believe such ciaims. Hishas nhundantly proved and fulfilled this prophecy. When he realty comes there will he a sudden publicity (v. 24), that shall flash from one corner to the other of the heavens, Matt. 24:27; then "every eye shall hehoid him." "So shall the son of man be in his day." This Instruction Jesus gives to his disciples. Men shait search for him, a time when he shall not he present as he then was. After the false once will come a day of revelntion when the whole heavens riil reveat him and all will Finsiity of Eventa. The Dsy of the Son of Msn, vv. 25-37. Before that day comes, however, he must suffer and he rejected. but following that rejection men will marry, enrry on merchandising and merriment as in the days of Noah and those of Lot. In the days of Noah and of Lot there came n sudden hait In these activities and a judgment of flood and fire, even so "after the same manner shail it he in the day that the son of man is revealed," v. 30. Thie refers to the finality of events when the kingdom of God comes hy way of judgment. Here Jesus sets his senl upon the truthfulness of these two events which preceded his first advent. If they be not true then he la a false teacher. Like as men discredit those events they likewise would set aside his teaching about his second ndvent. Many claim that verse 31 refers to the destruction of Jerusajem; the context to us clearly disproves any such interpretation. Verses 32 and 33 must be taken together.

Summary. Quite emphatically this passage is a teaching on the aubject of the coming of the kingdom of God. That kingdom came when Christ came in grace. It will come when he comes in judgment. it is coming constantly between the two advents. Remember his reading of Isainh's prophecy, Luke 4:18, 19; cf. lsa. 61:1-9. In his first advent he did come to preach the acceptable year, the year of grace. That day is still with us. in his second advent he will proclaim the day of the vengennce of God. He will establish the kingdom, will build the waste pinces and raise desciations. Today the kingdom of God is among us in power through the presence of Christ by the spirit in the living church.

To the Pharisees he said: "Neither shall they say, lo herel lo therei for the kingdom is in your midst." To his disciples he said: "They shail say io therei lo here! go not away nor follow them." We cannot localize the kingdom. On an ancient Syrian fragment the words of Luke 1:33 read. "and to his kingdom there shail be no frontier." On the lips of the Phartsees, kingdom meant a political organization and empire. With Jesus It means a spiritual reaim universal in extent, a rule of righteousness, and passe and joy in the Holy Spirit. When he appears all will know.

ADDRESS BEFORE LITERARY SO-CIETIES By Hon, J. J. Britt

A large and interested audience gathered in the chapel Friday night for the address before the Literary Societies delivered by the Hon, J. J. Britt, of Asheville, N. C. Mr. Hritt. is a living instance of the possibilities that are open to the young man who is deternaned to have the best. Only ten months of school life was the opportunity given this man, who became teacher, later Senator of his native state, and subsequently third assistant postmaster general of the t'nited States; a man of vision, also a man of decision, and of the persistence to secure results. Much of his life has been spent in public service. Be sure that a man of this character had a message that burned also, its way to the hearts of the hearers through the impassioned delivery.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Joseph Itsyward, an engin in the United States army on his way to Fort Harmar, meets Simon Girty, a renegada whose name has been connected with all manner of atroctitee, also headed for Fort Harmar with a message from the British general, Hamilton, Hayward guides him to the fort and protects him from a number of acoute who fried to ktil him.

CHAPTER II—At General Harmar's headquarters Hayward meets Rene D'-Auvray who professes to recognise him, atthough he has no recollection of ever having seen her before.

CHAPTER III—Hayward volunteers to carry a message for itarmar to Sandusky where Hamilton is etationed. The northwest Indian tribes are reedy for war and are only held back by the refusal of the friendly Wyandots to join. The letter are demanding the return of Wa-pa-ree-fah, a religious teacher whom they believe to be a prisoner. Hayward's mission is to assure the Wyandots that the man is not held by the soldiers. Harmar to-presses on Hayward the necessity of reaching Hamilton before Girty.

CHAPTER IV—Rece asks Hayward to chang fiamilion before Girty.

CHAPTER IV-Rece asks Hayward to let her accompany him. She tells him that she is a quarter-blood Wyandot and emissionary among the Indians. She has been in search of her father. Sinchasta that ehe has seen Hayward before, but in a British uniform. Itayward etails for the north accompanied by a ecout named Brady and a private soldier.

CHAPTER V-They come on the trait of a war party and, to escape from the Indiane, take shelter in a hut on an teland. Hayward finds a murdered man in tha hut.

CHAPTER VI-It proves to be Ranel D'Auvray, a former French officer, who is called by the Wyandots "white chief." Itene appears and Hayward is puzzled by her insistance that they have met be-fore.

CHAPTER VII—Rene recognizes the murdered man as her father, who was known among the Indians as Wa-pa-tee-tah.

CHAPTER VIII-She tells Hayward her rather was exited from the French court and had spent his life among the Indiana converting them to Christianity.

CHAPTER IX—Brady reports seeing a band of mersuding Indiane in the vicinity and with them Simon Girty. Brady's evidence convinces the girl that there is a British officer by the name of Hayward who resembles the American.

CHAPTER XI-Reconnoitering around the cubin at night Hayward discovers a white man in a British uniform and leaves him for dead, after a desperata right.

CHAPTER XII—The Indiene capture the cabin after a hard etruggle in which Hayward is wounded.

CHAPTER XIII—Rene saves Hayward from death at the hande of the savages and conceals him in the cellar of the fames already licking the fagots

CHAPTER XV-Hayward meets his double, Joseph Hayward of the British army. The latter admits that he had held D'Auvray a prisoner in the cabin, but that he knew nothing about his death, itis object in detaining D'Auvray was to help incits the Wyandots to war.

CHAPTER XVI—The Britisher de-clares that D'Auvrav was murdered by the negro, out of vangeance.

CHAPTER XVII—Rene reports that Brady is a prisoner of the Indiana and that he is to be burned at the stake. They plan to reacue the acout.

CHAPTER XVIII—Rene pleade with the chief for the life of the ecout. Although she is highly respected among the Indians her efforts are without avail. The British officer is recognized by a renegade named Lappin, who demands his life of the chief.

Other savages were running swiftly hack and forth hearing armsful of dried wood, which were cast down at Brady's feet, the mass already rising above his knees. Excitement was evidenced ly shouts, and wild cries, in frenzied leaping, dancing, and mad gesticulation. The Shawnee chief stood slient, with folded arms, but burning eyes, while Lappin grasped mademolselle's shoulder, holding her to place in the front rank of thoso rod demons, his voice shouting forth orders, or taunting the motionless hunter, who made no reply. Rene was upon her knees, her face hidden, hut I could see the white sleam of the crucifix as she held it forth in the glow of light. Itrady's face was not toward nie, nor revealed clearly by the tire, vet he held his head erect, his eyes roving over the devilish faces. The wounded jaw was bound about with a strip of bloody rag. Without speaking, it yet seemed to me he mocked them. Once he twisted in his bonds, and gazed at her as if he would utter some word, but changed his mind, and, for the first time, a look of pain awept into his face. Lappin saw the effort, called out aomo foul insult, and a warrior aprang forward, striking the defenseless man across the lips, and driving his head back against tho stump. The vicious act drove me mad, and I stepped forth into the open, flinging my gun down in the underbrush. No eve in all that swarm was turned my way. In silence I moved forward until I was within a few yards of the struggling mass. Then I stopped, full in the red glare of fire, my arms upilfted, and gave utterance to a deep, sepulchrai groan. God alone knows how awful was the apparition. To them, in startled horror, I was the dead man, standing there with ghastly face, and arms outstretched, my appearance rendered more terrible by the fitful gleam of fire, revealing features and form, glowing on torn red jacket, and head slashed by scalping knife, helilnd me the night and the black woods. No doubt it was a sight to hring fear to any heart, but to those murderers, their minds poisoned by superstition, it brought panic—a terror too terrible to resist. They knew me in the instant; I was the spirit of the dead; I had come back for vengeance; with clammy hands I was clutching for them: with sightless eyes I was seeking them ont. There was one yell, breathing forth the terror of their aouls: 1 saw eyes, wild with horror, staring at me; I saw men run and fall, scramble to their feet, and run again; I saw leaping bodies fight like fiends in an effort to get free. Siste-wah, struck by the rush, shrieked like a woman, stared toward me from where he lay on the ground, found his feet and ran. I canght glimpee of Rene's face uplifted, the cross still hefore her eyes; of Lappin, harled over hy the rush, trampled into the earth by flying feet, finally regain his knees, his face white as death, as he stared back toward me with protruding eyes. Again I grosned, the unearthly sound rising even above the din, eeemingly echoed by the great forest and flung back to earth again by the black curtain overhead. Ay! It was an eery sound! It even made my own flesh creep. Crazed by the terror of it, panic-stricken by the fears of others, the fur trader leaped to his feet, flung forward his rifle and fired. The hall sang past my ear, and I walked straight toward him, my ghastly face exposed to the fire, my hands reaching out in hiind clutching. With one yell, plercing, the yelp of a frightened wolf, he turned and dashed for the woods, staring back over his shoulder even as he crashed headlong into the underhrush. For fear they might pause when once under cover-the first spasm of terror gone-1 ran forward to the forest edge, giving utterance to another groan to spur them on. But this was not needed-terror, awful terror had struck into their very souls. Not one doubted the evidence of his own eyes; they had seen the dead walk; their murdered and scalped victim rise again in ghost-like semblance, and they thought of nothing hut escape—to get heyond the reach of those hands, the gaze of those accusing eyes. They were mad with the ghastly terror. I could hear the fleeing bodies crash hiladly into the underhrush, the diacordant cries dying in the distance, the occasional thud as some frightened savage struck against a tree in the dark, or fell sprawling to the ground.

It was all over with so quickly I could scarcely realize what had actual-CHAPTER X—Finding escape from the islend cut off Hayward and tits companions prepare to resist an attack from tha Indians. It is the indians in the indians ly occurred. Then I laughed and swore, mercliess red devils, those accursed murderers, those flends in human gulse. Nor was it likely they would stop in their mad flight until they dropped from sheer exhaustion, or the dawn of another day brought with it Fresh courage.

And those others, who were yet at his feet, and mademoiselie praying CHAPTER XIV-Hayward discovers a to the Virgin-what would they think? half breed negro in the cellar. They engage in a flerce fight, which ends when the negro accidentally butta his braina out against the low roof of the cellar. spectacle left them also in benumbed ground was a jumble of things, as if I looked noon a hattle field, yet this was not what I really saw in that first swift glance. A man-a white man-ran leaping across the flame-ilt opening. kicking aside the hlazing fagots of wood already scorching Brady, harling them to right and left in frantio haste, until he made passage through. I caught the glimmer of a knife in his hand; and then, hy main strength, he dragged the weakened prisoner clear of the hurning wood, and dropped him exhausted on the ground. As the fellow stood erect, staring about him, at the helpless haddle at his feet, at the white face of the girl, at the dehris on every side, I recognized Simon Girty.

"Saints alive! What does all this mean?" he cried, grabbing up the gun dropped in his first swift effort at reccue. "Yon 'Running Water;' ay! and his is the Kentuckian who would have killed me. What's happened here? It looks like a shambles. Never before did I see a man hurning himself. Who killed these-merciful God! What is that Y"

His voice rose into a shriek as he stared at me, while I advanced toward hlm. With one terrorized leap sprang back, throwing up his rifle, but with hands shaking so, that I laughed outright. The sound coming unexpectedly from such ghastly lips must have been more horrible than a groau, for the frightened man dashed his weapon to the ground, and turned to ruu. Ilis foot struck Brady's body and he weut down, scrambling to his knees. I saw the old scout's head uplifted, the trembilng girl bury her face in her hands, as if to shut out the sight.

"Don't run; there is nothing to be afraid of!" I cried hastlly, stopping still in my tracks to better reassure them. "I am no ghost, but a friend. llear me, mademolacile!"

"Oh, I am glad-glad!" she managed to whisper, "I—I am not superstitious, not wesk; hut this was so real, so dreadful, that all thought left me. Oh, how could you, how could you do that?

"It was all that was left for me to do," I explained, my heart throbbing, as I drew her hands from hefore her face, and looked into her eyes. "You must not hlame me, mademoiselle. I could not fight alone sgainst them all. I was crazed with despair when I first thought of this. It was as though God inspired me to the attempt,"

My eyes looking beyond her saw Girty on his knees, reaching for his rifle in the dirt. Then he arose to his feet, his face showing hard and ugly in the firelight. "What's all this mad play about!"

he ejaculated roughty. "Come now, speak up thar, or I'll try what lead kin do. Are ye ghost, er man? Burn me If I'm afraid o' either!" "Your courage has been tested." I

He stared, uncertain, into my claystreaked face, his eyes narrowed into mere slita.

"Does that feel like the grip of a phantom, you fool?" I asked sharply. "If it does i'll shut down tighter still for your henefit. My tale can wait its teiling until we be well out of here. There will be time enough then to satlsfy your curlosity. Those fellows may get over their fright and come hack."

"What fellows?" "A mixed hand of Miamis, Ojlhwas and Shawnees - mostly Shawnees with a chief named Sise-te-wah!"

He gazed into my face a minute and laughed, slapping his knee in sndden merriment.

"Lord! But that's a good one, boy! By the Lord Harry! 't was a fine joke. But maybe we better move, friend, for he would not be in good humor if he did come, and I am scarcely in better grace with him than you."

"Go where!" "To join my party. Did yer think it likely I was here alone? I'll tell yer the whole of it in a word. I found the warriors of the Wyandots marching south, an' joined them. Have you heard it was war? Ay! There's no stopping now; the tribes have taken the trail, the tomahawks are bloody. "I is said St. Clair has left liarman already, and there will be fighting on the Wahash, l'ish! It is easy to guess bow it will end."

Where are your indians?" "At the foot of the lake, I soot up the shore as far as the ford; saw the blase of fire over here and crept. up through the woods to investigate. Then somebody fired a gun, and I rea forward. This is what I found." He waved his hand about the open space "Now you understand. I reakon the best thing for us to do is to get out." I looked down at Brady dos

"tes he talk at all?"

"If you bend close to his tipe you can hear his words," she answered giancing up at my face. The bunter's eyes were bright; he seemed to be trying to speak, and I dropped on my knees beside her.

"What is it, Brady?" There was a faint muttering, but I distinguished the words.

"Was-was that-Simon Girty?" "The-the man-who, who-cut me down :

"Yes." "Whar-whar is he now?" "Right here; you want to speak to him—oh, Girty?"

The renegade came toward ns, and the eyes of the two borderers met. For a long moment they looked at each other, many a memory, no doubt, floating between. Then Ifrady held ont a hisckened hand.

"Yer saved my life, Simon Girty," he sald with an effort. "I—I never thought to-shake hands with you-but-hut I'm a goin' to."

Girty's ugly face broke into a smile. "No more did I," he admitted grim-"We ain't ginerally been in no shakin' hands mood when we've met heretofore. Still, I reckon, we're about sven np an' kin afford ter shake if we wanter. Think yer kin travel a hit, Brady?"

"llow far?" "To the foot of the lake; to a Wyandot camp."

The hunter's eyes wandered from his face to mine.

"I-I reckon I can," he mumbled at last. "I-ain't hurt so much, only hruised up." His glance fell upon his feet. "Maybe if-I had some whole moccasins I'd get along better."

"We'll fix that," and Girty laughed.
"I reckon that's what them dead infuns is lying there for."

He stepped across to the nearest body, fumbled a moment, and came hack, dropping on his knees. Deftly and quickly he cut the burned leather from the wounded man's feet, touching the blackened flesh gingerly with his fingers, and slipped on the new mocca-

"You're not scorched much, friend. flurts some, i reckon, but a couple 'o days will put you all right agin.'

As I pen these adventures of youth I eeem to retain hut dim recollection of what occurred following our arrival at the camp at the foot of the lake. I recall the struggle we had with firady, which taxed Girty's strength as well as my own. The man suffered greatly, and for much of the distance we bore him in our arms in spite of his protests. Yet we reached the spot at last, cast hy a small fire, the Indians aroused from sleep by Girty's shout, and clustering about us in eager curiosity. At first view I deemed them hostile, hut a word from the girl made them friendly enough.

It was the fourth day, on the banks of the Maumee, that we came stragpassed through howling hordes, who struck at us in spite of the guards. The word passed that one of the white prisoners was Stephen Brady caused them to press about us so close that we were fairly hemmed into the mass. infuriated faces on every side, the wild shricking making an indescribable din. The situation was becoming serious. for the guards cared little what befell I stepped toward him, amused to see us, when Girty, accompanied by three yandot chiefs and a white man in British uniform, fought passage through the crowd, and hy threats and blows, won way for us through the village. The extent of this surprised me, and gave me a new conception of the power of those northwest Indian tribes. There were hundreds, perhaps thousands, gathered there, for we only traversed one end of the encampment. the warriors of tribes whose homes were as far away as the great lakes and the big rivers. There were few wigwams erected, not more than two or three standing in the shadow of trees close beside the river. Big as the encampment was, it was no permanent village, but a mere rendesvous for the various tribes allied for war. To one of these, covered with decrakin and rendered hideons by tribal totams. we were taken, and thrust within. A last we were alone, Brady and I, although we could still hear the yelling without. He lay extended on his litter, and I dropped to the ground, theroughly exhausted from the rough butfeting through which I had passed.

VERSE FOR THIS WEEK

He prayellt well who levellt well Both man and bird and beast; lle prayeth best who loveth best All things bolk great and small: For the dear God who loveth us, He made and loveth all.

-S. T. Coteridge,

WAYS OF USING CORN.

Green corn is neually preferable in et of these dishes, although the nned will give good results.

As a vegetable, corn is so often served with butter and milk, and this onotony grows tiresome. A salad, a souffie, fritters and any number of nombinations are good.

Corn Souffis.-Melt a tablespoonful of butter and add to it a tablespoonful of sifted flour; stir until smooth, then add one by one three beaten egg yolks and a cup of hot milk. Cook until smooth, add a cup of corn, fresh or canned, season with sait and pepper, than fold in the well heaten whitee. Put into a buttered mold or into individual molds and hake in a hot oven twenty minutes. Serve in the dish in which it is haked.

Baked Tomstose and Corn.-Select small-sized tomatoes of uniform size, secop ont the pulp from the stem and without peeling; turn upside down and drain. Mix a cup of corn with two eggs, a tablespoonful of hutter and one of fionr, creamed together; season well with salt and pepper, fill with the mixture and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes. Serva with a garnish of parsley.

Corn Saisd .- This la best with freshby boiled corn cut from the coh. Uss equal quantities of coru and freshly bolled rics; season and add sufficient mayonnaise. Berve in lettnes cups, very cold.

If one can get fresh clams, corn and clams make a most delightful combination. Chop half a green pepper and a silce of onion together; cook in a quarter of a cupful of hutter until soft, add a quarter of a cupful of flonr and stir until foamy. Hent a pint of clams in their own juice, drain and chop. Measure the clams and take equal parts of fresh grated corn. Add three-quarters of a cup of the clam juice, after straining, to the butter and four: add two beaten eggs and thres tablespoonfuls of cream, and stir into the clam juice, but do not boll. Butter some clam shells, put in the mixture and cover with buttered crumbs. Serve on a napkin on a hot platter. Garnish with parsiey.

Questions Answered

BEREA, FRIEND OF WORKING STUDENTS. Berea College with its affiliated schools, is not a money-making institution. It requires certain fees, but it expends many thousands of dollars each year for the benefit of its students, giving highest advantages at lowest cost, and arranging as far as possible for students to earn and save in every way.

OUR SCHOOL IS LIKE A FAMILY, with careful regulations to protect the character and reputation of the young people. Our students come from the best families and are earnest to do well and improve. For any who may be sick the College provides doctor and nurse without extra

All except those with parents in Berea live in College buildings, and many assist in work of boarding hall, farm and shops, receiving valuable training and getting pay according to the value of their labor. Except in winter it is expected that all will have a chance to earn a part of their expenses. Write to the Secretary before coming to secure employment.

PERSONAL EXPENSES for clothing, laundry, postage, books, stc., vary with different people. Berea favors plain clothing. Our climate is the best, but as students must attend classes regardless of the weather, warm wraps and underclothing, umbrellas and overshoes are necessary. THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE furnishes books, toilet articles, work uniforms, umbrellas and other necessary articles at cost.

LIVING EXPENSES are really below cost. The College asks no rent for the fine buildings in which students live, charging only ensugh room rent to pay for cleaning, repairs, fuel, lights, and washing of bedding and towels. For table board, without coffee or extras, $1.35 a week, in the fall, and $1.50 in winter. For furnished room, with fuel, lights, washing of bedding, 40 to 60 cents for each person.

SCHOOL FEES are two. First a "DOLLAR DEPOSIT," as guarantee for return of room key, library books, etc. This is paid but once, and is returned when the student departs.

Second an "INCIDENTAL FEE" to help on expenses for care of school buildings, hospital, library, etc. (Students pay nothing for tuition or aervices of teachers-all our instruction is a free gift). The Incidental Fee for most students is $5.00 a term; in Academy and Normal $6.00 and $7.00 in Collegiate course.

PAYMENT MUST BE IN ADVANCE, incidental fee and room rent by the term, board by the half term. Installments are as follows:

FALL TERM VOCATIONAL AND ACADEMY FOUNDATION SCHOOLS AND NORMAL Incidental Fee..... $ 5.00 $ 7.00 7.00 7.00 5.60 Board 7 weeks Amount due Sept. 16, 1914... $20.05 $23.45 $22.45 Board 7 weeks, due Nov. 4, 1914 9.45 9.45 9.45 Total for term..... $29.50 $31.90 $32.90 WINTER TERM Incidental Fee $ 5.00 $ 6.00 $ 7.00 Room 7.20 7.20 Board 6 weeks 9.00 9.00 Amount due Jan. 6, 1915..... $20.00 $23.20 Board 6 weeks due Feb. 17, 1915 9.00 9.00 9.00 Total for term $29.00 $31.20 $32.20

In no case will special Ensiness Fees exceed $15.00 per term. Any able-bodied young man or young woman can get an education at Berea if there is the will to do so.

It is a great advantage to continue during winter and spring and have a full year of continuous study. Many young people waste time in the public schools going over and over the same things, when they might be improving much faster by coming to Berea and starting in on new studies with some of the best young men and women from other caunties and

Applicants must bring or send a testimonial shawing that they are above 15 years old, in good health, and of good character. This may be signed by some former Beres student or some reliable teacher or neighbor. The use of tebacce is strictly ferbidden,
